To Whom It May Concern:

Simon Surowicz has been working with me as a video tape editor for the past three years, and I can give him the highest recommendation.

We have averaged five or six 60 Minutes segments per year during that period, and they have covered the full range of editing possibilities, from feature type reports to several "crash" projects, often put together in the most difficult of physical and time constraints. In all caes, Simon has performed excellently.

He not only is an extremely good and meticulous editor, but he frequently also has valuable editorial insights to offer.

Those kinds of insights would obviously serve him well were he to undertake producing his own reports.

He would make a top-flight addition to any news or documentary organization.

Sincerely,

Barry Lando
